1980 NAIA CHAMPIONSHIP BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Rolling out to a 40-25 halftime lead, Cameron University of Lawton, OK, proved too much for top-seeded Alabama State to overcome and the Aggies went on to win the 43rd Annual NAIA National Championship Basketball Tournament with an 84-77 victory March 15 in Kansas City's Kemper Arena.

Cameron, which had been the number one seeded team for the 1979 tournament, won the required five games in the six-day event as the number three seed this time around. The Aggies two-time All-America guard Leroy Jackson was named the most valuable player.

The tournament drew an official paid attendance of 60,869 for the week including 6,699 for the championship finale.
